

Major Vanatta will put a lock on the box, keep the key, and send the box to her advisor. When he receives it, he will put his own lock on the box on a different hasp, then he will send it back to her. Then, she will remove her lock and send it back to him where he can open it. In this process there is no way that anyone could have opened the box.