AS Johnston's decision to lead the attack personally contributed to the tangle of committed units to combat as well as the early use of the reserves that resulted in the confused Confederate situation at the close of the first day. Movement indicated began about 0900.

Positions shown are those to which Union forces were driven by the end of fighting on 6 April.

SHILOH AND VICINITY, 1861
SHILOH CAMPAIGN
Confederate Attack and Situation At End of the First Day, 6 April 1862

HISTORY DEPARTMENT
USMA
Frank Martini